NEW DRAMA

Robin Hood

From Sunday 2 November, MGM+ (two episodes from 2 November, then weekly)

Henry Rowley as Will (left), Jack Patten as Rob and Ian Pirie as Uncle Gamewell

Nottingham's legendary outlaw Robin Hood returns to our screens this week in a dramatic reimagining for MGM+.

The 10-part series stars newcomer Jack Patten as Robert of Locksley, a young Saxon man in 12th-century England who is driven to seek vengeance when his family's ancestral home is seized, and his father is executed by the Sheriff of Nottingham.

'In our show, we get to meet Rob before he is Robin Hood,' says Patten. 'You see him as a 24-year-old who is trying to find his way in life – he's just a regular guy. Then we go further into the story, and we see Rob transform into the rogue outlaw that we all know and love.'

Rob's quest galvanises other Saxons to rise up and stand alongside him in the battle for justice and freedom, but his cause also attracts support from further afield when Marian (Outlander: Blood of My Blood's Lauren McQueen), the daughter of a high-ranking Norman family, is inspired to join him.

Marian and Rob have a deep, emotional connection

'In our story, Marian is an inexperienced, innocent girl who grows into a woman of confidence,' says McQueen. 'She finds her own voice and power, and finally chooses things on her own terms. I wanted to show her fire and inner strength, and make her a Marian we have never seen before.'

Both Patten and McQueen were aware of the weight of expectation that comes with playing an iconic romance like this, and were determined to make their on-screen chemistry as believable as possible.

'Marian and Rob's relationship is so special,' says Patten. 'They have a deep, emotional connection – it's very Shakespearean in a way, because they are from two different worlds. Lauren and I talked a lot about how they look at each other; there is so much that is said without them saying anything.'

'Rob and Marian meet in the beginning, go off on their separate journeys, and then come back together, so maintaining that love throughout all the episodes was important,' adds McQueen. 'I remember before I went in for the chemistry read, I noticed Jack sitting outside having a break, and I had the courage to go up to him and say hello. I was thinking, "We have to act like we are in love in the next five minutes", so that broke the ice!'

'We see Rob transform into the rogue outlaw that we all know'
JACK PATTEN

While this new adaptation of the Robin Hood legend marks Patten's and McQueen's first time leading a series, there's stalwart support from Silent Witness' Richard Lintern as the Bishop of Hereford, Gladiator II star Connie Nielsen as Queen Eleanor of Aquitaine, and Sean Bean as the Sheriff of Nottingham.

'I was so excited to work with Sean,' says McQueen. 'He brings that extra level to the show and the Sheriff. We had a nice conversation about Liverpool [where McQueen is from] when we first met – he'd done a TV show there, so it was nice to relate to him in that way.'

Filming took place in Serbia, and Patten was determined to live up to the legend of Robin Hood – who's previously been portrayed on screen by Errol Flynn, Kevin Costner and Russell Crowe – by doing as many of his own stunts as possible.

'I did pretty much everything, except for anything that might have been a bit too dangerous for me to do on my own,' he says. 'I was intense when it came to practising because I wanted to be really good at it. We had an incredible stunt team, and they stayed back with me after hours to help me learn.'

While there has been no shortage of Robin Hood TV adaptations over the years, creator and executive producer John Glenn (SEAL Team) hopes this version will prove bold enough to capture viewers' imaginations all over again.

'This is a story of a boy becoming a man, then that man becoming an outlaw, and that outlaw a legend,' says Glenn. 'It's an idea of people striving to become who they can be – it's more Peaky Blinders in tone than any other Robin Hood I've seen.'

WHO'S WHO IN ROBIN HOOD

Priscilla of Nottingham
Lydia Peckham

The Sheriff's only daughter has inherited his talent for politics and motivates her father in his pursuit of the Saxon outlaw known as Robin Hood.

Monster rising

NEW FROM NETFLIX

Guillermo del Toro reanimates a horror classic in a stunning Netflix movie

Victor in his lab

NEW HORROR

Frankenstein

From Friday 7 November, Netflix

For director Guillermo del Toro, Mary Shelley's tale of a tortured scientist and his monstrous creation is more than just a story; it's a lifelong obsession. Now, after decades developing his passion project, del Toro's electrifying adaptation of the Frankenstein story comes alive on Netflix.

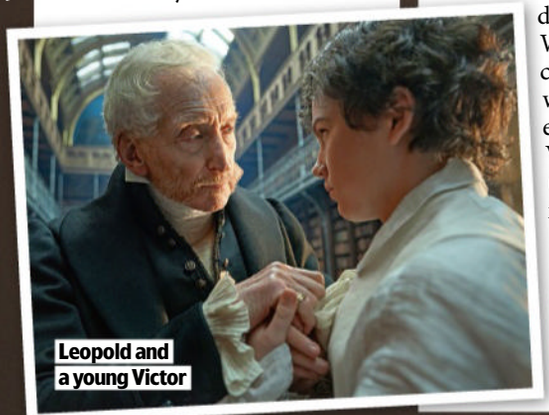
'I've lived with Mary Shelley's creation all my life,' says Mexican-born del Toro, 61, who has won Oscars for Pinocchio (2022) and The Shape of Water (2017). 'For me, it's the Bible, but I wanted to make it my own, to sing it back in a different key with a different emotion.

'I've always dreamt of making two movies: Pinocchio and Frankenstein. I think they tell the same story: what it is to be human, and what it is to be framed in a life by eternity and death. I wanted to make Frankenstein as personal as it could get.'

Oscar Isaac as Victor

HUMAN NATURE

The beautifully haunting retelling of Shelley's 1818 Gothic masterpiece, is set during the Crimean War and split into two chapters, beginning with eccentric, egotistical scientist Victor Frankenstein (Oscar Isaac) narrating part one, as he regales his life story to a Danish navy captain (Lars Mikkelsen), who finds him stranded in the Arctic.



Leopold and a young Victor

But after confessing how he stitched together a patchwork man from scavenged body parts in a wild experiment, Victor reveals the terror that's waiting for him outside on the ice.

'I sat in Guillermo's house, and we talked about approaching Victor like a musician, a rock star,' says Isaac. 'He's a misunderstood artist and that punk-rock energy is important. When Victor walks into the lab for the first time, he's imagining it as a stage.'

The impressive cast also includes Christoph Waltz as arms merchant Heinrich Harlander, Felix Kammerer as Victor's brother, William, Mia Goth as William's enchanting fiancée, Elizabeth, and Charles Dance as Victor's cruel father, Leopold.

'There's a beautiful circularity to this idea of fathers and sons, and how trauma gets passed on – how good and evil are two sides of the same coin, constantly flipping back and forth,' says Isaac.

BROKEN SOULS

The second chapter shifts to the Creature's perspective, revealing how his maker's frustration and eventual abandonment sparked a vengeful quest for survival.

'I feel like this role came to me at a point when I needed to reset and rebuild as a person, which is the journey the Creature goes on,' says Saltburn's Jacob Elordi, 28, who underwent a monstrous transformation, which included a bald cap, false teeth, various wigs and an extra-large contact lens.

Del Toro also encouraged him to watch previous Frankenstein adaptations and immerse himself in horror films for inspiration.

'I didn't realise that there's this whole world behind monster movies,' says Elordi. 'These monsters are friends to so many people and I have a deep reverence for these films. Our Frankenstein is immersive and requires every ounce of your attention, but I promise you'll have a deeply enriching cinematic experience.'

IT’S ALIVE!

Our five favourite Frankenstein monsters...

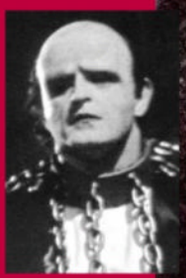
Frankenstein (1931)

Arguably the most famous of adaptations – not least for its iconic line, ‘It’s alive!’ – this James Whale-directed classic stars Boris Karloff as the creature with Colin Clive as his maker.

The Curse of Frankenstein (1957)

Directed by Terence Fisher, this was Hammer Films’ first colour horror movie and starred Peter Cushing as Victor and Christopher Lee as the tragic creature.

Young Frankenstein (1975)



Mel Brooks’ parody of the 1931 film stars Gene Wilder as Victor’s American grandson, Frederick ‘Fronk-en-steen’. Peter Boyle is the monster and Marty Feldman is assistant Igor.

Mary Shelley’s Frankenstein (1994)

Sir Kenneth Branagh directs and stars as Victor opposite Robert De Niro’s more sympathetic creation in this lavish adaptation. Helena Bonham Carter co-stars.

Penny Dreadful (2014-16)

Rory Kinnear memorably brought the monster (called Caliban) to the small screen as he went in search of love. Billie Piper played his potential bride, with Harry Treadaway as Victor.

The team head out to investigate

NEW DRAMA

Shetland

Wednesday, 9pm, BBC1

A seemingly quiet and peaceful hamlet proves to be a hotbed of buried secrets as Shetland returns for its 10th series this week.

The locals of Lunniswick have always prided themselves on looking out for one another, but when elderly resident Eadie Tulloch is found murdered, DI Alison 'Tosh' McIntosh (Alison O'Donnell) and DI Ruth Calder (Ashley Jensen) discover that the community isn't nearly as harmonious as it seems.

Further complicating matters is the revelation that Eadie was an old friend of Sergeant Billy McCabe (Lewis Howden) – and as the investigation deepens, the murder has major repercussions not just for the village residents, but for the entire police team.

TV&Satellite Week joined Jensen and O'Donnell for an exclusive interview to find out more…

EXCLUSIVE!

Village of SECRETS

A death in a remote community has shocking consequences as Shetland returns

What can you reveal about the case being investigated in this series?

O'Donnell This series really comes back to Shetland's roots. We're focusing on the idea of it as a place where you get these small communities, rich in history and relationships, where everybody knows each other's business.

Jensen The series interweaves some of the police team within the case, which has given us all something very interesting to play. We have some kind of emotional involvement with the storyline – everyone's world is shaken a wee bit.

Billy's connection to the victim puts him right at the heart of this one. Did you enjoy getting more dramatic scenes to play with Lewis?

Jensen He's such a fine actor, with such a body of work. Just to see him flying with this storyline was great. The viewers have only ever seen Billy in the police station, but in this series we see his house, his wife, and we even see him in his civvies!

O'Donnell We love to think of Billy as this dependable, steady guy, but it was really fun to see the evolution of his character.

Lewis Howden as Sgt Billy McCabe

There's a fantastic guest cast playing the Lunniswick residents, including Only Child's Greg McHugh, Dept. Q's Clive Russell and Motherland's Ellie Haddington. Were you excited to have them on board?

O'Donnell The story feels really beautifully seeded and the pay-off is just gorgeous at the end, so it was lovely to see these actors come and bring that to life.

Jensen There are lots of characters – and lots of red herrings. Getting to work with all these wonderful, experienced actors was really fun.

How does Tosh and Calder's relationship evolve in this series?

Jensen This year, because of the storyline, there's a little bit of a flip. Tosh behaves in a way that you might ordinarily see as more of Calder vibe's, and it's Calder saying, 'Can we just hold on a wee minute?'

O'Donnell We've worked really hard to build a solid foundation for their dynamic, to the point now where we can start to subvert it a little. There is a bit of a role reversal – there's more of a compassionate side of Calder, while we get to see Tosh actually being quite hard on people.

NEW FACES

The League of Extraordinary Gentleman*'s Stuart Townsend arrives in Shetland this series as Ed Tulloch, the estranged son of murder victim Eadie, and he forms an unexpected connection with Calder.

'She feels drawn to him, even though she knows she shouldn't be,' says Jensen. 'It's kind of crossing the line because he's the victim's son. But Ed had a fractured relationship with his mum, and Calder was the same with her dad. They're complicated characters who connect on that level.'

Meanwhile, Amandaland star Samuel Anderson joins the regular cast as new procurator fiscal Matt Blake.

'He brought a real seniority to our scenes together,' says O'Donnell. 'When he came in wearing his suit, you really felt like, "The boss is here!" I liked that dynamic.'

Peter, Marissa and Alcaras face the press

NEW DRAMA

All Her Fault

Friday, 9pm, Sky Atlantic (box set, Sky Box Sets & NOW)

Nowhere BOY

Sarah Snook shot to fame for her Emmy-winning performance as conniving super-rich businesswoman Shiv Roy in Sky Atlantic's hit drama Succession, and now the Australian actor is mixed up in more deception and betrayal in the new eight-part mystery thriller All Her Fault.

Based on the novel by Andrea Mara, the series begins when high-powered Chicago mother Marissa Irvine (Snook) arrives at the home of a recent friend to pick up her son, Milo (Duke McCloud), following his first play date with a boy at his new school.

But she is horrified when the door is answered by a complete stranger who tells her Milo has never been at the house, and she has no idea who he is.

NIGHTMARE SCENARIO

When Marissa received a text from her new friend Jenny (The Perfect Couple's Dakota Fanning) to say she was collecting Milo from school, she assumed it was genuine.

But it soon becomes clear that the message came from someone pretending to be Jenny – leaving Marissa's husband, Peter (The White Lotus' Jake Lacy), furious with his wife for not checking the number against the school contact list.

'Marissa is a working woman and wife, who's trying to balance it all,' says Snook, 37. 'But when she arrives at the house, she finds it's the wrong address and the phone number she used to arrange the play date is now defunct. From there, we deal with the fallout across every aspect of her life.

'Within the show, there are deeply buried family secrets,' she adds. 'As the series goes on, everything gets slowly unpicked.'

'Within the show, there are deeply buried family secrets'
SARAH SNOOK

Could anyone from Marissa's close-knit community of friends, including Lia (Abby Elliott), Carrie (Sophia Lillis) and her business partner Colin (Jay Ellis), be responsible for Milo's disappearance?

Duke McCloud as Milo

As a local cop, Detective Alcaras (Jack Ryan's Michael Peña), begins an investigation, an unexpected suspect comes to the fore as rumours start to spread about every member of the friendship group.

TWISTS AND TURNS

'The title of the show speaks to the designation of blame that keeps shifting throughout the series as we try to work out who's at fault for Milo's disappearance,' says Snook, who was drawn to the show (which was filmed in Melbourne, Australia) by its shocking conclusion.

'Nothing can or ever will probably top Succession,' she says. 'But I couldn't say no to All Her Fault – it's a real gift of a twist.'

The Caribbean island of Isla Mujeres is the starting point as a new batch of celebrities and their loved ones pack their rucksacks for the latest edition of Celebrity Race Across the World.

Over the coming weeks, the four pairs must navigate their way over 5,900km across Central America on a tight budget, with no access to flights, credit cards or mobile phones, before they reach the finish line in Colombia.

This year's pairings are Beyond Paradise actor Dylan Llewellyn and his mum Jackie; EastEnders star Molly Rainford and her radio DJ fiancé Tyler West; broadcaster Roman Kemp and his singer/songwriter sister Harleymoon; and presenter Anita Rani and her dad, Balvinder 'Bal' Singh Nazran.

We caught up with Countryfile and Strictly star Rani, 48, to hear more…

Rani and her father aim to have an amazing experience

Why did you want to take part in the series? I want my dad, Bal, to have an adventure – he's never had one before. The last time we travelled together, I was two and Dad hired a motorbike in India and sat me on the petrol tank, with my mum on the back with my baby brother. That was a very long time ago – more than 40 years.

How important is he in your life? We get on, he makes me laugh, and if I ever want help in making a decision, he's the person I call.

NEW COMEDY

I Love LA

Monday, 10.25pm, Sky Comedy

If you liked Girls and Adults, there's a good chance you'll enjoy meeting the social-media obsessed friends in new US comedy I Love LA.

The eight-parter stars Rachel Sennott (who also created the show) as neurotic 20-something Maia and follows her chaotic life in Los Angeles with her equally complicated friendship group.

BIG DECISIONS

Inspired partly by Sennott's own experiences, the series charts her misadventures with boyfriend Dylan (Josh Hutcherson) and two-faced frenemy Tallulah (Odessa A'zion), a narcissistic influencer who reconnects with Maia after years apart.

What home comfort will you miss while you are away? We'll both definitely miss my mum's cooking.

What do you imagine your biggest challenges are going to be? Making sure we keep our minds occupied. We're taking a travel chess set and I'm bringing a skipping rope and some resistance bands.

What qualities will help you cope? With our combined ages, we are probably the oldest pairing, but I think that's probably to our advantage. We're definitely not beach bums – we want to have an adventure. We're both go-getters, curious and open-minded. We're competitive, but we just want to give it our best shot and have an amazing experience.

'It's about friends in a specific time period – not your early 20s where you're trying to figure it out, but your late 20s, where you're forced to make big decisions that could potentially impact the rest of your life,' says executive producer Emma Barrie. 'Do I marry the guy or break up with him? Do I continue on this steady career path, or step into the unknown? The characters feel like there is a ticking clock and they're in a rush to catch up and find success.'

The series also stars True Whitaker – the daughter of movie actor Forest Whitaker – as Hollywood nepo baby Alani, Jordan Firstman as celebrity stylist Charlie, and Leighton Meester as Maia's flakey boss.

The cast of I Love LA

LIVING IT LARGE

'Maia's highs and lows are deeply tied to her career. Work isn't just work – it's the centre of her identity,' says Barrie. 'She believes if you don't prioritise ambition and success, you risk missing your chance. 'She wants a big life, and she knows that comes with sacrifices. Her generation doesn't get to take anything for granted. You have to fight for your spot tooth and nail, and LA is a beautiful place for that combat to happen.'

Kim Kardashian and Glenn Close head a team of powerful female divorce lawyers in a glossy drama from Ryan Murphy

All's Fair

NEW Available: Tuesday 4 November
Genre: Drama Season: 1
Eps: 9 (three eps from Tue 4 Nov, then weekly)

Reality TV favourite, socialite and businesswoman Kim Kardashian looks set to carve out a new career as a top Hollywood actor when she joins an all-star cast for a slick and stylish legal drama on Disney+ this week.

Created by prolific producer Ryan Murphy, the nine-parter All's Fair features the 45-year-old as Allura Grant, a successful, savvy, Los Angeles-based divorce attorney who feels restricted working in a male-dominated environment.

Wanting to unlock her full potential, Allura starts her own fearless and feminist powerhouse law practice, with help from friends Liberty Ronson (Naomi Watts) and Emerald Greene (Niecy Nash-Betts).

Cut to 10 years later and the trio now also work with young lawyer Milan (Teyana Taylor), but ex-colleague Carrington 'Carr' Lane (Sarah Paulson) has declared them her enemy. Meanwhile, veteran lawyer Dina Standish (Glenn Close) is on hand to act as the women's mentor.

Together, the high-powered legal team must navigate all manner of high-stakes break-ups, scandalous secrets and shifting allegiances – both in and out of the courtroom – as they seek justice and recompense for their female clients.

'I knew I was working with women that were the best at what they do, so my job was to make sure I showed up prepared,' says Kardashian, whose late father, Robert Kardashian, was OJ Simpson's defence attorney. 'As a kid, I was always going through crime-scene photos in Dad's office. I loved what he did for work so it's fun to play a lawyer now on TV.'

Guest stars across the series include Elizabeth Berkley, Jessica Simpson and Brooke Shields, all playing unhappily married women in need of legal help.

CONFIDENCE BOOSTERS

'These women feel broken down and the job of the attorneys is to give them their confidence back, and go into the courtroom to get what they need,' explains Kardashian, who previously starred in American Horror Story, also created by Ryan Murphy.

Liberty Ronson
Naomi Watts
The English divorce lawyer loves empowering women to claim what's rightfully theirs – and she doesn't care who she upsets in the process.

Carrington 'Carr' Lane
Sarah Paulson
Carr was ditched by her friends and colleagues 10 years ago and has been hell-bent on revenge ever since. Can she show Grant, Ronson and Greene who's boss?

Kim Kardashian as Allura Grant

For Sarah Paulson, the series is another collaboration with Murphy, after numerous projects including Ratched, while for Glenn Close, the role proved to be a welcome change from one of her most famous TV characters, ruthless litigator Patty Hewes in Damages.

NEW DIRECTION

'When Ryan said All's Fair was a show about women lawyers, I said I didn't want to be like Patty again!' she reveals. 'But he told me that Dina is the mentor and matriarch of the group and that I'd get to wear great clothes. I've never been in a show like this – I was intimidated in the beginning but you're buoyed by all these great women behind you.'

DEADLY TARGET

Michael Shannon and Matthew Macfadyen star in the true story of a US President and his assassin

NETFLIX Death by Lightning

NEW Available: Thursday 6 November Genre: Period drama Season: 1 Episodes: 4

A flash of ambition and a bolt of betrayal sparks one of America's most shocking assassinations in political period drama Death by Lightning, from Game of Thrones producers David Benioff and DB Weiss.

The four-parter tells the true story of the 20th President of the United States, James Garfield, who was shot at a railroad station in Washington, DC just four months into his term, and died 79 days later from his injuries.

Set in the 1880s, the drama follows Ohio representative Garfield (George & Tammy star Michael Shannon), also a preacher, lawyer and Civil War hero, who is unexpectedly nominated as the Republican candidate after giving a rousing speech endorsing a fellow politician at the Republican National Convention.

Meanwhile, following numerous failed schemes to make his fortune, destitute and delusional Charles Guiteau (Succession's Matthew Macfadyen) is desperate to get into politics and decides to launch his own campaign to support Garfield.

When Garfield goes on to win the presidency, Guiteau believes he personally had a hand in the victory and is infuriated when his efforts are not rewarded.

SENSE AND WISDOM

'I wish there were more people like James Garfield nowadays. The more I learnt about him, the more I fell in love with him,' says Shannon, 51. 'Garfield was directing people away from hysteria and towards common sense.'

The cast includes Nick Offerman as Vice President Chester Arthur, Bradley Whitford as Maine senator James G Blaine, Shea Whigham as New York senator Roscoe Conkling, and Betty Gilpin as First Lady Lucretia Garfield.

'It's been a thrill seeing this crack team come together to bring Garfield and his cohort back from the annals of long-forgotten history,' says creator and writer Mike Makowsky. 'The fact that he's been relegated to this obscure footnote because he was targeted by an assassin is a tragedy.

'It's one of the great "what ifs" in American history and a story I still can't believe is true, in all its wild, tragic glory,' adds Makowsky. 'It somehow feels even more relevant to our world today than ever before.'

More tracksuited contestants compete for big money...

Game on

NETFLIX Squid Game: The Challenge

NEW Available: Tuesday 4 November Genre: Reality Season: 2 Episodes: 9 (four episodes on Tue 4 Nov, four on Tue 11 Nov, and the finale on Tue 18 Nov)

When the first season of reality show Squid Game: The Challenge was released in 2023, the spin-off became an instant hit – and almost as popular as the original South Korean show.

The game arena

The challenge show is back this week for a second season, with a new batch of 456 green tracksuited players fighting for a life-changing prize of up to $4.56 million. To win, they must compete in a range of fiendishly difficult tasks, including 'Six Legs' – where teams of five people with their legs tied together race to complete games, such as building a house of cards, while the clock is ticking.

With players facing elimination at every turn, the contestants include several celebrities from US reality series Selling Sunset, such as Sandra Vergara (cousin of Modern Family's Sofía Vergara), who will be hoping to emulate the winner of Season 1, Vietnam-born retiree Mai Whelan.

'The overall experience was very stressful, from not knowing the next game or elimination round to navigating your friendships and allies,' recalls Whelan, who since 2023 has spent much of her prize money supporting good causes.

'My advice is, "There is only one winner," so you have to keep apart from making friendships and alliances. The money is on the line, so you have to think smartly.'

Rhea Seehorn plays a woman immune to a virus that makes everyone on Earth feel good

Pluribus

NEW Available: Friday 7 Nov
Genre: Sci-fi Season: 1
Episodes: 9 (first two episodes from Friday 7 November, then weekly)

The writer-producer behind acclaimed US shows Breaking Bad and spin-off Better Call Saul returns to our screens this week with an Apple TV sci-fi drama about a virus that sweeps across the world making everyone happy and content.

Vince Gilligan's new nine-part series Pluribus, also set in Albuquerque, is seen through the eyes of grumpy romance novelist Carol Sturka (Rhea Seehorn), who seems to be the only person on Earth immune to the contagion.

However, being surrounded by calm strangers who benignly offer her their support is the start of a deeply unsettling experience for Carol.

Rhea Seehorn as Carol

ALIEN INFLUENCE

'At first, I thought the idea was bonkers,' laughs Seehorn, who played formidable attorney Kim in Better Call Saul. 'But then I realised Vince was using sci-fi to ask deep questions about human life from a different perspective. What does it mean to be happy? What does liberty mean?'

The opening episode begins with astronomers discovering a radio signal from outer space which contains a recipe for RNA – a nucleotide sequence similar to DNA – which scientists reproduce in a lab.

STRUGGLING THROUGH

When the RNA spreads through the world's population, it causes everyone to collapse and begin convulsions, before recovering as passively happy versions of themselves. But tragically Carol's wife, Helen (Miriam Shor), is killed in the chaos as the people of Albuquerque become unconscious.

'Carol doesn't know where to turn,' says Seehorn. 'She's grieving the loss of her wife, the loss of her career. Every friend she's ever had has changed forever and she doesn't know what's going to happen. She feels exhausted and isolated.'

Another disturbing aspect of the virus is that the world's population now has a shared consciousness, and Carol sets out to find answers regarding the phenomenon.

'The drama of the show is that the world's most miserable person is desperately trying to save the planet from happiness,' says Gilligan. 'Carol is a reluctant hero. She doesn't really want to be tasked with saving the world, but she more or less feels like it's her duty.'

Hamilton today

Following on from pop documentary Boybands Forever, BBC2 is now shining the spotlight on the girl-band fever that swept the nation during the 90s and noughties in a new three-part documentary, Girlbands Forever.

Among the popular girl groups sharing their memories are All Saints, Sugababes, Little Mix and Liverpool trio Atomic Kitten, who had their first hit, Right Now, in 1999 with a line-up that featured Kerry Katona, Liz McClarnon and Natasha Hamilton, who was just 16 at the time.

RIDING HIGH

'Joining the label [Virgin Records] that signed the Spice Girls, I felt like I'd got the golden ticket,' says Hamilton, now 43. 'I'd only been in the band a couple of months, but I'd been singing, performing and gigging every weekend from the age of 12. The excitement and adrenaline was crazy.'

co-wrote many of their songs, Atomic Kitten travelled the world, performing sell-out shows and enjoyed three UK No 1s, the first being the super-catchy Whole Again in 2001.

But the pressures of fame soon took their toll, especially when Hamilton was diagnosed in 2002 with postnatal depression after the birth of her first child, Josh.

'I remember being on stage just six weeks after having my baby, wearing five-inch heels and three pairs of Spanx, feeling so detached and not sure if I wanted to be there any more,' she recalls. 'I was like this pressure cooker, trying to keep a lid on things, until I exploded. Even after the diagnosis, there wasn't time to heal; I was just too busy. I was literally begging for time off – and I was given two weeks!'

GOING SOLO

The group disbanded in 2004, before reuniting in 2012, and continued to perform on and off until last year, when Hamilton stepped away from Kitten duties to focus on other projects. But she'll always be proud of the band's legacy.

'When I do gigs now, I'm so grateful that I've got this back catalogue of hits that people know,' she says. 'It's pure nostalgia being on the stage and having everyone singing all the words to these songs back to me.'

Historian David Olusoga

Rule Britannia

David Olusoga explores the history and legacy of the British Empire...

NEW FACTUAL

Empire with David Olusoga

Friday, 9pm, BBC2 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

At its height, the British Empire ruled over a fifth of the world's land surface. But how did tiny islands on the edge of Europe claim such power? And, after 300 years, why did the Empire collapse in the space of a single generation?

That's what historian David Olusoga is keen to find out in his new three-part BBC2 series as he explores the history of the Empire and why it's essential to understand what its legacy means.

'More than a quarter of all the nations on Earth are former British colonies,' explains The Celebrity Traitors star Olusoga. 'Scattered across the world are the ruins of the British Empire – statues to kings and viceroys, slave fortresses, plantations, schools, railways and prisons.'

Although there's no clear start date for the British Empire, this week Olusoga tries to understand its origins, which likely began in 1592 with the capture of a Portuguese trading ship near Dartmouth by English privateers. What they found was a cargo of extraordinarily expensive spices, silks and calicos.

'For some people, the capture was a moment when they came to realise that the Portuguese and the Spanish had pioneered a new form of global trade,' says Olusoga. 'It was staggeringly profitable and the English had been left behind.'

He then traces the first 17th-century English settlements in Jamestown, Virginia, and travels to Barbados, where sugar plantations were carved out of the rainforest. He also touches on the beginnings of slavery, which saw poor land workers from England, Scotland and Ireland replaced by enslaved people from Africa.

'By the 1660s around 20,000 enslaved people laboured, suffered and were worked to death on the fields,' says Olusoga. 'And the legacy of slavery lives on.'

Later in the series, the historian explores the contested histories and hybrid identities that were left behind when the British Empire finally came to an end following World War Two.

'There are billions of people whose ancestors in different ways were part of this story, and for this series we've also invited people from across the world to take part,' says Olusoga. 'The story of the British Empire is also their family story. But it's a history we're all struggling to come to terms with.'

Olivia Colman and Benedict Cumberbatch slug it out as warring spouses in this astringently witty black comedy about a once blissfully happy couple going through a truly toxic divorce. Scripted by Tony McNamara (Oscar-nominated for The Favourite) and directed by Jay Roach of Austin Powers and Meet the Parents fame, the movie is a remake of 1989's The War of the Roses, which was adapted from the savage novel by Warren Adler and starred Kathleen Turner and Michael Douglas.

The new film isn't quite as wincingly bitter as its predecessor, but Colman and Cumberbatch are terrific as the combustible couple, Ivy and Theo, she a fast-rising chef, he an overreaching architect, whose careers go in opposite directions when they move from the UK to San Francisco.

There are some gasp-inducing set-piece scenes as the pair's marriage implodes spectacularly, but it's the steady barrage of bitchy one-liners along the way that best shows off the stars. 2025, 15, 105MIN

Bob Trevino Likes It

Wednesday, 10.50pm, Film4 ★★★★

Switching deftly between hilariously funny and soul-achingly devastating at the drop of a hat, this sweet, tender tale is an absolute triumph. Barbie Ferreira plays a deeply lonely 25-year-old who, after a horrible argument with her self-serving, narcissistic father (French Stewart) accidentally 'friends' a man online with the same name as her dad. John Leguizamo is that new chum, a married, middle-aged building contractor who's just as isolated as Ferreira, and their blossoming, innocently platonic relationship is such a thing of joy, it's impossible not to be swept away by it. Based on writer-director Tracie Laymon's own true story growing up, it's a tumultuously emotional journey, with no hint of cheesiness, just pitch-perfect turns from the leads full of heart and awkward charm. Indeed, you'll be hard pressed to find a better movie about the human need for love and friendship. 2025, 15, 101MIN

ANIMATION

The Twits

Available now, Netflix ★★★★

Although this adaptation bears only a passing resemblence to the original Roald Dahl children's book, there is still plenty to enjoy in this inventive animated comedy. Voiced by Johnny Vegas and Margo Martindale, the title characters are a married couple who hate each other, but hate everyone else even more. Their story is told by a mother flea (Emilia Clarke) to her son, both nestled in Mr Twit's beard, and the tale involves orphaned kids, a health-hazard of an amusement park and even dips its toes into populist politics. The humour is mostly scatalogical, but Dahl's misanthropy has been tempered considerably with a message of tolerance and kindness, while the lively, quirky animation has an almost stop-motion quality to it. This may not be pure Dahl, but it's terrific fun. 2025, PG, 98MIN

The Woman in the Yard

Friday, 1.25pm & 8pm, Sky Premiere ★★★

Decimated by grief and depression, while also being constrained with a broken leg, Danielle Deadwyler has sunk to an all-time low after the death of her husband. Left with a fixer-upper farm and two kids (Peyton Jackson and Estella Kahiha), she's shaken out of her funk by a veiled woman (Okwui Okpokwasili), covered in black and appearing from nowhere, seated on her lawn... An interesting take on loss and its after-effects, this smart little chiller has the vibes of an old Twilight Zone episode, especially with its thought-provoking, ambiguous ending. 2025, 15, 88MIN

HORROR

Vicious

Available now, Paramount+ ★★★

In what is for the most part a single-hander, Dakota Fanning is excellent in this tense, fraught horror – even if it ultimately makes little sense by the end. She plays a thirtysomething screw-up who is presented with a wooden box and told she will die that very night, unless she places three things within it: something she loves, something she hates and something she needs. And taunting spirits know whether she is lying or not... Grim and grisly, with a chunk of nihlism for good measure, this chiller may run out of steam by the end, but its taut atmosphere keeps it engrossing. 2025, 15, 98MIN

Queen of the Ring

Director Ash Avildsen has taken the little-known story of pioneering female wrestler Mildred 'Millie' Burke, aka 'The Kansas Cyclone', and turned it into a rousing sports drama whose evocative period feel and fine cinematography belie the film's modest budget.

Impressively played by Emily Bett Rickards, Millie goes from being a single mum in Depression-hit 1930s Kansas to becoming the first million-dollar female athlete, overcoming bitter rivals, hidebound sexism and an exploitative trainer-manager-husband (played with huckster charm by Josh Lucas) along the way.

Queen of the Ring covers a lot of ground, so it is unsurprising that the film's narrative should sometimes feel episodic, but Avildsen builds stirring momentum as his film approaches Millie's climactic championship match in Atlanta in 1954. Rickards proves gutsy and appealing in the lead, and there are vivid supporting turns from Francesca Eastwood as swaggering friend and fellow wrestler Mae Young, Walton Goggins as gentlemanly wrestling promoter Jack Pfefer and Adam Demos as flamboyant male grappler Gorgeous George Wagner. 2025, 12, 130MIN

Based on her own experiences, director Joanna Hogg sets out the troubled, complicated relationship in the 1980s between a young, eager film-maker (Honor Swinton Byrne) and a louche older man (Tom Burke) who's also an addict. There's no room for Tom Willis or Owen Farrell in coach Steve Borthwick's squad, which is captained by Maro Itoje. Bath wing Henry Arundell is included, having last represented his country in 2023, and Saracens' teenage winger Noah Caluori could be fast-tracked for a senior debut after scoring five tries on his Premiership debut. First up at Twickenham on Saturday is Australia, who took the honours last year with a last-gasp try.

KIDS WATCHLIST

Great shows for young viewers (from tots to teens) on linear TV and streaming

NETFLIX Dr Seuss's The Sneetches

Available from Monday, Netflix

The latest Netflix production based on the works of children's writer and illustrator Dr Seuss is this 45-minute animated special that centres on two Sneetch friends – one is a Star-Belly, while the other a Moon-Belly. When they meet, they notice their differences but also realise that Sneetches are Sneetches no matter what!

A charming show to teach youngsters that our differences are what make us so amazing.

BBC iPLAYER Horrible Histories

Friday, 6pm, CBBC & BBC iPlayer

Note to teachers: learning about historical events doesn't have to be dull, repetitive and boring! The HH gang always know how to inject a bit of fun into learning, as in this new sea-faring themed episode.

We find out what happened when a young Julius Caesar was kidnapped by pirates (spoiler – it didn't end well for the pirates!), if it's possible to sink a submarine with poo, and what explorer Christopher Columbus got up to on some of his voyages. Anchors aweigh!

More great shows to watch this week...

Lord of the Flies

Young rising stars bring the iconic novel to life

A group of schoolboys are beset by danger and bitter rivalries on a tropical island in BBC1's upcoming adaptation of William Golding's classic 1954 novel Lord of the Flies.

The four-part drama, which is the first-ever TV adaptation of the book, has been penned by award-winning writer Jack Thorne and filmed in Malaysia. It sees the children stranded without adult supervision following a plane crash, and sensible Ralph (Winston Sawyers) soon tries to maintain order with help from clever Piggy (David McKenna).

But gung-ho Jack (Lox Pratt), who takes charge of signal-fire duty and hunting, becomes a more appealing leader for some of the boys and disaster beckons as conflicts involving class, burgeoning masculinity, and savagery versus civilisation come to the fore.

ALSO STRANDED

Ike Talbut plays Simon, Thomas Connor is Roger, Noah and Cassius Flemyng are twins Sam and Eric, Cornelius Brandreth is Maurice, and Tom Page-Turner is Bill.

'Lord of the Flies is a book that left a scar on me like no other,' says Thorne. 'It is a book, I think, full of love as well as cruelty, about how we survive as people and the ways we undo ourselves. It is a TV show we hope families will watch together on the sofa and unpick just as I unpicked the book with my mum as a kid.'
